PREFACE
Staunton, Virginia.

CITIES are the clearing houses of the country, and partake more or less of the nature of the territory they serve.

For more than 150 years Staunton has been the commercial centre of one of the most fertile and beautiful sections of the Old Dominion. It is located in the middle of the great Valley of Virginia, at its widest point, and towards the extreme southern limit of that portion known as the Shenandoah Valley, and which is so justly famed in song and story for its great beauty. Thrifty and substantial, beautifully picturesque, and attractive from the wealth of blue grass and foliage which grows with the utmost profusion on the limestone soil, and conforming itself to an irregular topography by variety in streets and architecture, it is hard to conceive of a place more pleasing in appearance or better suited for man's habitation.

An elevation of 1,500 feet above tide means cool nights in the height of summer, and insures at all times that bracing air so conducive to physical comfort and well-being. The beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains to the eastward, and the outlying ridges of the more massive Alleghany to the westward, both of which are continually in view from the many hills of the city, throw around the city the protection of their encircling arms, and guard it equally from the cold moisture-laden gales of the Atlantic and the severer waves of temperature which find their home in the great Northwest. These conditions imply an equable climate, without great extremes of either heat or cold, and permit of the most strenuous physical or mental effort. Though the rainfall is abundant the records of the U. S. Weather Bureau give us 258 fair days out of the 365. The death rate in Virginia is less than 10 per 1000.

When to this is added that there are no mosquitoes and no malaria, it will be realized that nature has done all that could reasonably have been expected for the comfort and well-being of humanity.

There is probably no more delightful habitation than a city which combines at the same time the advantages and attractions of the country. This is only possible with cities of very moderate size; and if, in addition, there has been added to the mellowness and attraction which only come with age, the advantages and comforts which are the result of modern invention and progress, an ideal proposition is presented. Such is Staunton. A city of 12,000, four hours run from Washington, the same from Richmond, and about two hours from the Hot Springs, the Warm Sulphur and the Rockbridge Alum.

SCHOOLS AND EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES.

When a community equips its youth with the best education attainable at the lowest cost, it has done the maximum positive good which the State can perform for the individual. The public schools of Staunton a[illegible] outgrowth of the widespread intellectual culture which has demanded the best and which has made ample provision for their development. They are second to none in the State, and in the judgment of well-informed parties, the student who passes through the various grades secures a broad, general, well-balanced education ample for all requirements, and a sure foundation for higher cultivation, or as a basis for college work. And this is secured to every citizen of the town, whether he pays $1.00 of taxes or $100.00 and whether he has one or a dozen children. Staunton schools were among the first to adopt manual training and industrial development and every effort is made to give a thoroughly practical, well-rounded course of instruction. How well this has been accomplished may be judged from the fact that a student of the school has recently, before graduation and without special preparation, stood successfully the entrance examinations for West Point, for which over five hundred candidates entered, and of which only 104 passed, while many had special and unusual instruction with a view to the examination, and in his succeeding examinations this student has stood first in Mathematics and first in English.

For a great many years Staunton has been the center of much educational activity, mainly among girl's schools or colleges, and there is no State in the Union which has not sent many students here, while students from foreign countries are not uncommon. At present there are two large schools for young ladies—the Mary Baldwin Seminary and Stuart Hall—and also a large school for boys, which is said to be the largest preparatory school in the South, and which is known as the Staunton Military Academy. It is the home of the Dunsmore Business College, one of the leading commercial schools in the State.

The short distance of the town from the seat of the University of Virginia, from the Virginia Military Institute and from Washington and Lee University brings it in close touch with these institutions, and makes it possible to secure with the greatest convenience and at a minimum expense the best of higher education for its young men, while presenting at home equal advantages in a relative sphere to its young women. The result is the development of an intellectual culture which characterizes its people in all the walks of life and secures their appreciation and co-operation in everything pertaining to the well-being and up-lifting of the community.

Two of the most important of the State elemosynary institutions are located here, the State School for the Deaf and the Blind, whose primary purpose is to educate those deficient in these senses to be useful and self-supporting citizens; and the Western State Hospital for the Insane, which does a noble work for the afflicted of the State. The original selection of the site of these institutions was in recognition of the wonderful health-advantages of the vicinity.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

An evidence of the willingness of the citizens to co-operate in progressive movement for the well-being of the city, is the fact that Staunton is the first municipality to appoint a Business Manager, who, acting under the control and management of the City Council, and within the requirements of the State Constitution, will practically be the manager of the city, and devote his entire time to the development of the city's best interests. The outcome, which promises the most gratifying success, will be watched with much interest by the other cities of the Commonwealth.

A Civic Improvement League is looking after the matter of public health, food supplies and sanitation.

PUBLIC UTILITIES.

The city owns its own Opera House, with a seating capacity of 800; a paid Fire Department; Water Works from which the net revenue amounts to approximately $8,000.00; an ample sewer system, which is being extended to meet the demands of the public, Electric Light Plant, by which the streets and public building are lighted, and the City Park of 150 acres which would be a crdeit to a city of many times the population. The principal streets are brick paved with granolithic sidewalks. Fine macadam roads radiate in several directions.

PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATIONS.

The city has frequent train service by C. &. O. and B. & O. It is amply supplied with light, heat, and power, by corporations furnishing both gas and electricity at reasonable rates. The street transportation facilities are taken care of by an electric car system reaching out into the suburbs which are rapidly building up. The telegraphic and telephonic systems are first-class.

HOTEL FACILITIES.

Staunton is exceptionally well equipped with five Hotels, with all modern conveniences, and many boarding houses. The hotels alone have a capacity for 600 guests. It is in a region of mineral springs of various sorts, and easily accessible to a number of summer resorts.

BANKING FACILITIES.

Staunton is justly proud of her banking facilities. There are four banks having capital, surplus and profits, amounting to $752,-766.65, with deposits of $2,345,160. 40, and resources of $3,378,927.05. These figures speak volumes for the soundness of local business conditions and a fact that should not be overlooked is that during the panic period the bank of Staunton discounted all good paper offered. by their depositors, and never suspended payment of currency on any checks presented.

CHURCHES.

The country in the midst of which Staunton is situated was settled by a pious people, many of whom were induced to come to this region partly by the hope of enjoying religious liberty. Their decendants in this vicinity still retain much of the reverence for religion displayed by their ancestors. So the church life of Staunton is rooted in good soil.

The people of this city are to an unusual extent a church-going and God-fearing people. Within the city limits there are nine different Christian denominations at work among the white population. They are as follows: Methodist, Northern and Southern; Presbyterian, Episcopalian, Baptist, Lutheran, United Brethren, German Baptist and Roman Catholic. These have organizations and houses of worship, and some of them more than one. Altogether they have twelve white and four colored organizations. The aggregate communicant membership is over 5,200.

Staunton is adorned with as handsome a group of church buildings as probably can be found in any city of its size.

The Young Men's Christian Association is most comfortably housed, with a fine gymnasium and extensive library, and is noted for its activities.

SOCIETY.

Staunton is a city of homes, with the domestic spirit predominating. The delightful social intercourse among its people and the hospitable welcome extended to strangers have been the habit of generations. To the attractions of a cultivated and refined social life of its own are added a large contingent of summer visitors to the city and many temporary residents from Southern States whose children are attending the local schools. There are several choice residence properties and a number of desirable building sites in and about the the city to be bought at very reasonable prices. Much architectural taste is exhibited in dwelling construction.

MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES.

Staunton could not be called a manufacturing center, but this is only because the attention of the outside world has never been called to the many natural advantages existing, one of which is the fact that the labor that can be procured here, though not as a rule "skilled," is of a very high class of intelligence and education, and consequently can be made equal to any in the world. The back country, producing all classes of food stuffs, together with the cheap rents existing here, makes this an ideal point to establish new industries. Failures in Staunton are almost unknown, and the success that has followed the establishment of the large industries speaks louder than words.

In fact, it can be truthfully said that all businesses of every kind in Staunton are on a sound and prosperous footing. Staunton and the surrounding country support two daily, two semi-weekly and four weekly newspapers. Besides the home industries, the executive offices of some of the largest coal operations in the New River District, handling millions of tons of coal, are located in Staunton.

The people of Staunton invite manufacturers to inspect this locality before locating any prospective plants, and assure them that everything that is reasonable and consistent with good business principles will be done to assist them in bringing to successful conclusion any undertaking located within their borders.

A considerable wholesale business is done in the city, and its retail establishments compare favorably with those of the larger cities. It has department, clothing, dry goods, hardware, grocery, jewelry, confectionery and other stores equal to the best in most of these lines.

The citizens of Staunton extend to every one a courteous invitation to make his home in their midst and to share those advantages which have been a gift of nature, or the result of fostering care since before the founding of the republic, feeling satisfied that those who may do so will share in their pride in the city's institutions and a desire to co-operate in making them continually better.

For further particulars apply to the Mayor of Staunton, the President or Secretary of the Board of Trade, or to Chas. E. Ashburner, General Manager, City of Staunton.

STAUNTON, VA.

Established 1872 39th Session Chartered by Legislature 1884

It does not guarantee positions or agree to pay railroad fare as an inducement to secure patronage. It DOES guarantee thorough preparation for securing and holding a position after it has been secured. And to this end it has been wonderfully successful. At this time not one of our Combined or Full Course Graduates is out of employment, their salaries ranging from $40 to $300 per month. Write at once for catalogue and statements that verify the foregoing assertion.

Plain Talks on Fertilizers

How to Get the Greatest Possible Yield per Acre

It is a well-known scientific fact that in order to produce the very greatest possible yield from any soil it must contain an actual excess over and above all demands that can possibly be made on it by the plants.

Many farmers will feed their stock as much nourishing food as they can possibly assimilate, yet will starve their crops on the mistaken notion that they are "economizing" on fertilizer. The experiences of farmers, government experts, and agriculturalists everywhere confirm the fact that plants, like animals, need the fullest possible amount of nourishment that they can obtain if they are to be developed to the utmost.

The economy in fertilizers is not in the amount used but in the ratio of quality to cost. Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers are the best in the world for the least money. More than one million tons were sold to Southern farmers last year; and every year the demand becomes greater.

The best results in producing corn, the good old stand-by crop of the South, follow the application of 200 to 300 pounds of the right fertilizer. Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers will greatly "increase your yields per acre" of corn or any other crop, even on poor land—and the most wonderful results are produced through its use on good land.

Write today to the nearest office of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company for a copy of their latest Year Book or Almanac, a large 130-page book of the most valuable and unprejudiced information for planters and farmers.

STAUNTON GAS COMPANY

IT IS BEST, Because—

First—It is the nearest to daylight
Second—It is the highest in efficiency
Third—It costs less to install
Fourth—It costs less to operate
Fifth—It costs less to maintain

STAUNTON VIRGINIA

Virginia Business Directory

and Gazetteer

VOLUME 9

Is now in the course of publication, and will be issued in Fall 1910. It will contain the names of the Merchants, Manufacturers, Professional Men and Farmers of the Whole State, arranged alphabetically by Counties, and also by Business Classifications. There will be a complete list of Post-Offices. Full and correct municipal and statistical information of each City, Town or Village will be given, as well as other details likely to be of interest to those engaged in commercial intercourse, or about to enter into business relations with each other.
